Part 3: Translation

Translate the following passage into Urdu.

I moved to England from Turkestan in 1998 for political reasons. I worked in a Turkish leather shop and learned English. I am happy here. England respects the rights of Muslims and I can pray anywhere. As it is easy to acquire knowledge, I would like to become a computer engineer. I met my wife at college five years ago – we talked and fell in love.

We have lived in East London since February. I feel lonely because there are not as many Turkish people here as there are in North London. I applied for a government flat but there weren't any available, so temporary accommodation has been arranged for us.

I pray before dawn, study until my daughter wakes and then I take her to school. After that I help my wife give breakfast to our other children. Every Friday I go to the mosque for an hour, then study in the library. I pick my daughter up from school and help her with her homework. At seven we have dinner, then the children go to bed. I study until eleven, say my prayers and go to bed. [20]
