Section A: Greek Tragedy

Answer Question 1 and either Question 2 or Question 3.

- 1 Read the passage and answer the question.

MEDEA: I accept my place; but this blow that has fallen on me
Was not to be expected. It has crushed my heart.
Life has no pleasure left, dear friends, I want to die.
Jason was my whole life; he knows that well. Now he
Has proved himself the most contemptible of men. 5

Surely, of all creatures that have life and will, we women
Are the most wretched. When, for an extravagant sum,
We have bought a husband, we must then accept him as
Possessor of our body. This is to aggravate
Wrong with worse wrong. Then the great question: will the man 10
We get be bad or good? For women, divorce is not
Respectable, to repel the man, not possible.

Still more, a foreign woman, coming among new laws,
New customs, needs the skill of magic, to find out
What her home could not teach her, how to treat the man 15
Whose bed she shares. And if in this exacting toil
We are successful, and our husband does not struggle
Under the marriage yoke, our life is enviable.

(Euripides, Medea 223–243)

Using this passage as a starting point, discuss whether Medea's actions make it impossible to sympathise with her. [20]

How far do you agree with this statement? In your answer you should refer to at least two plays. [30]

Section B: Homeric Epic

Answer Question 4 and either Question 5 or Question 6.

- 4 Read the passage and answer the question.

'We have had plenty of travel-weary strangers here before, but not one that I have seen has reminded me so strongly of Odysseus – your looks and your voice and your very feet – as you.' 'Old woman,' said the quick-witted Odysseus, 'that is what everyone says who has set eyes on us both, that we are remarkably alike, as you yourself so shrewdly observe.' The old woman fetched the gleaming basin which she always used for washing the feet of guests, poured in plenty of cold water and added warm. Odysseus was sitting by the fire, but now he swung abruptly round to face the dark, for it had struck him suddenly that in touching him she might notice a certain scar he had, and his secret would be out. Eurycleia then came up to her master and began to wash him. At once she recognised the scar, the one Odysseus had received years before from the white tusk of a boar when on a visit to Autolycus and his sons. 5 10

(Homer, Odyssey 19. 379–396)

Using this passage as a starting point, discuss to what extent the use of disguise is important in the Odyssey. [20]
